NKMIA, LLC.

Economic Development Fund Application Responses

Naeem Khan's Miami facility is much more than just a factory, it will have design studios, management offices, shipping warehouse, a showroom, cafeteria, and work space to house guest designers. The Naeem Khan project is the first of its kind in Miami Dade County. The relocation of Naeem Khan's headquarters is a stepping stone not only for high-end designers but the entire fashion industry. Currently, almost all fashion designers are situated out of New York- where taxes and wages are substantially higher. Through Naeem's success of relocation, it will act as incubator for the entire fashion industry- with design studios in its facility readily available for other industry providers. Miami is the ideal location for the fashion industry- a climate allowing year-round production, substantially lower taxes and wages, and the region's access to a South American population with a tradition of handiwork. Naeem Khan's relocation to Miami Dade County will jumpstart the fashion industry throughout Miami Dade County.

The economic development of this project does not stop at design and manufacturing- there is much more to this complex industry. This project will spur and develop industries which have been dormant in Miami for far too long. As the stepping stone for the fashion industry- it is only a matter of time before other designers see the cost savings of relocating to Miami Dade County. As designers relocate to Miami it will open the doors for Miami to host an international fashion week which will generate thousands (if not millions) of dollars. According to a study by the U.S. Congress Joint Economic Committee, New York Fashion Week brings in almost $900 million in revenue for the city. Quoted in WWD, Representative Carolyn Maloney pointed out that the biannual event has more economic impact than the U.S. Open ($700 million), last year's Super Bowl ($500 million), and the New York City Marathon ($340 million).

The economic impact of the Naeem Khan project does not stop at design, manufacturing, distribution, logistics, and tourism- it will also venture out to the education sector. There have already been meetings in place to create joint fashion programs with some of Miami's largest universities and colleges.

- G. Project's Budgets: Please See Tab 6 for all project budgets

Section 6. Economic Impact and Corporate Responsibility

- A. Economic impacts/benefits the project is expected to stimulate in the community, the County, and the rest of South Florida:

The Naeem Khan project will serve as an economic incubator impacting the economic conditions of the surrounding areas, neighborhood and ultimately the entire Miami Dade County and rest of South Florida. According to the Joint Economic Committee of the United State Congress, the Fashion industry is a $1.2 trillion global industry, with more than $250 million spent annually on fashion in the United Sates, according to industry analysts. Fashion and apparel industries employ 1.9 million people in the United States and have a positive impact on regional economies across the country.

Fashion is a structurally diverse industry, ranging from major international retailers to wholesalers to large design houses to one-person design shops. It employs people across occupations—including fashion designers, computer programmers, lawyers, accountants, copywriters, social media directors, and project managers. According to a report by the California Fashion Association, manufacturing is only a fraction of the modern apparel industry as "it is a highly sophisticated industry involving fashion and market research, brand licensing/intellectual property rights, design, materials engineering, product manufacturing, marketing and finally, distribution."

The fashion industry in America has changed dramatically over the past century. In 1931, the Garment District in New York was home to the highest concentration of apparel manufacturers in the world. Many of these jobs have since moved offshore. Over the past two decades, U.S. employment in the apparel manufacturing industry has declined sharply, from almost 940,000 in 1990 to about 144,000 in 2013. Naeem's vision is completely different than the industry trend by bringing manufacturing jobs, which are so desperately needed, back to the United States.

The project's economic impact only begins at the 50 new direct jobs it will create and its possibilities are endless. High fashion is big business. In New York City alone, it is a $98 billion industry. Currently, much of the industry's impact is concentrated in New York and Los Angeles. However, because of Miami's lower cost of living, Miami too has the capability of becoming a major fashion hub. Through the initiation of the Naeem Khan project, Miami Dade County will begin to reap the economic benefits, including the diverse and high-paying jobs in fashion design. As retailers and fashion designers cluster outside the traditional fashion hubs, towards cities like Miami, this can help facilitate innovation in the fashion industry and benefit other industries in those regions as well. With the growing number of high-paying jobs in the industry, Miami Dade County should look to extend its leadership in the fashion world.

- B. Will business operations being supported with an Economic Development fund grant establish a plan for maximizing the employment of persons with family incomes less than 80% of the County's median household income, or persons living in CDBG eligible Census areas? No
- C. Will the business operations be conducted in LEED certified building?
The building will not be conducted in LEED however, it will incorporate Green components and features.
- D. Criminal or civil fines or penalties or ongoing investigation that have been performed/imposed upon the company, its executives, its principals or its affiliates and any bankruptcy proceedings of the applicant or its parent company: NONE
- E. Is the company current with all its state, local and federal taxes? Yes
