Miami River Historic Sites

- 1 THE HISTORIC MIAMI RIVER The Miami River was central to the birth of the City of Miami. Until 1910 the river was the City's main source of drinking water. The word "Miami" is a request for "sweet water" which emanated from the river. Miami's first inhabitants (5000 B.C.), hotel, tourist attraction, trading post, etc. were all located on the Miami River.
- 2 ROYAL PALM HOTEL In 1896 Henry Flagler, owner of Florida East Coast Railroad and Florida East Coast Hotel Company, built the Royal Palm Hotel. The luxurious hotel was Miami's first major tourist accommodation.
- 3 MIAMI CIRCLE A 2,000-year-old stone circle was discovered during a mandatory archaeological survey of the site when two residential buildings were planned for construction. The south bank of the Miami River's mouth was a requesta the village circa 750 B.C.
- 4 BRICKELL PARK Brickell Park is named after one of Miami's founders, Mary Brickell. In 1871 the Brickell family had a home on this location, and owned the first trading post in Miami. In 2000 an archeological survey discovered the remains of a Tequesta Tribe burial ground in Brickell Park.
- 5 FLAGLER WORKERS HOUSE Henry Flagler arrived in the late 1800s to build the railroad, the Royal Palm Hotel and other developments. When the hotel was built, he offered ongoing employment by constructing 30 similar houses along what is now SE 1st and 2nd Street between 55 1st and 2nd Avenues. This frame vernacular style "Royal Palm Cottage", was constructed in 1897 from native pine with a gabled, shingled roof. The one remaining is the only structure of its age, size and type in downtown Miami. It has been moved to Fort Dallas Park on the Miami River. The City Commission designated the Flagler Workers House a historic site in 1983.
- 6 JOSE MARTI PARK The site was a Native American camp, circa 400 A.D., preserved beneath river fill dredged in the early 1900s. Excavations in 1982 recovered pottery shards, artifacts, dozens of similar camps existed along the river in 1860 the location was known as "Fort City", housing Cuban political refugees who fled Cuba during the Mariel boat lift. The site became Jose Marti Park in 1984, named after a Cuban independence hero and poet.
- 7 RIVER INN MIAMI The River Inn Miami was constructed in 1906. Sallye Judge, restored the historic Inn in the late 1980's. The active Historic Miami River Hotel is on the National Register of Historic Places and was designated a historic site by the City Commission in 1987.
- 8 WAGNER HOMESTEAD This pre-1858 structure is the county's oldest standing house. It was built by William Wagner, an 1855 pioneer, whose homestead included a coonle mill and Miami's small wooden church, which burned down in 1892. The Dade County pine house is a hand-hewn, peg fastened and wood-shingled example of mid-19th century shelters.
- 9 WAGNER HOMESTEAD Development in the 1920s prompted its donation to the Dade Heritage Trusts, a private preservation group who undertook relocation and restoration. The City Commission designated the Wagner Homestead a historic site in 1984.
- 10 SCOTTISH RITE TEMPLE This 1922 building was designed and built by architects Kiehnel and Elio, an important Miami firm. The Art Deco, Egyptian inspired temple is noteworthy for combining classical detail with Art Deco abstraction in elements such as two-headed eagles and a zigzag roof. The original and present owner is the Miami Scottish Rite Temple Association. The City of Miami recently included this property within the designated Lummus Park Historic District.
- 11 POINT PARK Henry Flagler arrived in the late 1800s to build the railroad, the Royal Palm Hotel and other developments. When the hotel was built, he offered ongoing employment by constructing 30 similar houses along what is now SE 1st and 2nd Street between 55 1st and 2nd Avenues. This frame vernacular style "Royal Palm Cottage", was constructed in 1897 from native pine with a gabled, shingled roof. The one remaining is the only structure of its age, size and type in downtown Miami. It has been moved to Fort Dallas Park on the Miami River. The City Commission designated the Flagler Workers House a historic site in 1983.
- 12 SPRING GARDEN Spring Garden was formed as a subdivision in 1919. It is home to an eclectic collection of artists and professionals. Its early residents included Miami Herald editor Frank Stoneman as well as his daughter Maryon Stoneman Douglas, Miami baker John Seybold, and several doctors, lawyers and businessmen. Spring Garden was designated a historic neighborhood by the City Commission in 1997.
- 13 RIVER RAPIDS The North Fork of the Miami River began with river rapids just south of the park. Everglades water spilled down a 6 foot natural ridge. The rapids ceased in 1912 with opening of the Miami Canal drainage project. The man-made canal begins at NW 24th Avenue near the end of the river's north fork, which continues a short distance to the west.
